It is my senior year of highschool. It first it was very hard for me, but I have made the best out of it and will remember this year for the rest of my life. My best friend Melisa wa moved up north to Missouri with her family With alot of begging and pleading, we finally got our parents to agree and let her move bac down to spend her senior year with the people she has been with for years. At this age its really hard to adapt, because you want to have fun before you graduate but at th same time you feel obligated to help out with anything you can. This has really taugh me a lesson and ~~[illegible]~~ re-evaluate whats important in my life. Its true when people say, "You never know what you have till its gone." Thank yall for everything yall are doing. Its greatly appreciated by everyone

Sincerely,

Jasia
